MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Administration

STATINTL FROM : [REDACTED]
Office of General Counsel

SUBJECT : OGC Review of ISAS Submission to the Federal Register

1. Pursuant to the request of [REDACTED] of 26 March 1979, the Office of General Counsel has reviewed the proposed submission to the Federal Register. We have especially considered the aspect that certain of these record systems consist of information on American citizens, cognizant of the fact that there is no blanket prohibition on this category of records provided they are lawfully maintained and utilized.

2. Accordingly, it is the opinion of the Office of General Counsel that the proposed new and modified record systems are in full accordance with all laws and executive orders defining our scope of activities and general authorities.

PRIVACY ACT OF 1974

New and Amended Records Systems

AGENCY: Central Intelligence Agency

ACTION: Final rule

SUMMARY: The Central Intelligence Agency hereby adopts seven new records systems to the existing records systems subject to the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552(a), Public Law 93-579. Also adopted is the amendment of two records systems previously promulgated in the Federal Register. The Agency's systems of records were most recently published in the Federal Register at Vol. 42, No. 184, pp. 48050-48074, 22 September 1977.

DATES: The adoption of the seven new records systems and the changes in the two amended records systems become effective upon promulgation in the Federal Register.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Chief, Information and Privacy Staff, Central Intelligence Agency, Washington, D.C. 20505; phone 703-351-7486.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The general public was invited to participate in the formation of these systems of records by a notice published in the Federal Register at Vol. 44, No. 15, pp. 4518-4522, 22 January 1979. No written data, views, or comments were received from the general public by the Information and Privacy Coordinator during the mandatory 60-day period for accepting public opinion. Therefore, the new systems of records and the amendments to the existing records systems are adopted. By this adoption, the Central Intelligence Agency is permitted to, in the case of: CIA--62, Office of Data Processing Security Clearance Records, to maintain current information on the clearance status of contractors, vendors, persons in the private sector and individuals in other government agencies that are associated with the Office of Data Processing; CIA--63, Security Access Records, to monitor accessing of Agency buildings by badged individuals and aid in the effective assignment of security personnel by the Office of Security; CIA--64, Inquiries from Private Individuals About CIA and its Mission, to ensure that inquiries from the general public were properly answered; CIA--65, Contact with the News Media and Index, to prepare a daily memorandum for the Director of Central Intelligence apprising him of the substance of telephone conversations with members of the various news media, which information is maintained on index cards; CIA--66, Manuscript Review, to maintain a record of what information was proposed for release to the general public through speeches and published works of present and former Agency employees; CIA--67, Publishing and Speaking Engagement Clearances, to record clearance data for external speaking and publishing activities of present and former employees and permit awareness of what information was released to the public; and, CIA--68, CIA Personnel in Contact with Press, to maintain index cards on present and former employees who have had contact with the media. The amendment of CIA--20, Logistics Security Clearance Records, would permit its more efficient use through computer support. With the designation of CIA--64 through CIA--68 as records systems, certain changes were necessary in the description of CIA--39. Among other changes, the system name has been changed to read, "Publicity."
